

AND TIMES HERALD

JUDITH MAE KNOBLA

KATIE CABELL
TexasCAROL CARRUTHERS
VirginiaJANET JONES
OklahomaLOIS SAMS
TennesseeGAIL ITSCHNER
Washington

From Six States

More Festival Princesses Named

HALF A DOZEN more beauties from North, South, East and West, have been named to the growing list of Cherry Blossom Princesses.

Locally, there's Gail Sandra Itschner, a mathematics major at George Washington University who will represent the state of Washington. An Army "brat," Gail is the daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Emerson C. Itschner and has traveled extensively. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Oklahoma's festival princess is Janet Jones of Cordell, Okla., a newcomer to the Nation's Capital. She is a political science major at American University.

A graduate of Cordell High School, Janet was an outstanding debater and queen of the senior class. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood Jones.

Representing Tennessee this year is Lois Christine Sams, a scholarship student at the University of Tennessee. She is 20-years-old, a junior home economics major and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

A farmer's daughter, Lois comes from Douglas Lake, near Dandridge, Tenn. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sams. At Dandridge High School, Lois was voted the "most popular" and "most popular" student.

Her hobbies include sewing, dancing, water-skiing and swimming.

REPRESENTING the "Dairy State" of Wisconsin is Judith Mae Knobla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Knobla. Her father is an architect with the Department of the Army.

She attended Strayer Business College and the University of Maryland, majoring in business and public administration. She is now employed in the Office of the Chief of Transportation, Department of the Army.

SELECTED as Virginia's princess is Carol Moore Carruthers, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore Carruthers.

Carol attends Marjorie Webster Junior College, and excels in riding, tennis, swimming, and dancing. Her home is Charlottesville.

Texas' princess is Catherine deWitt Cabell, better known as Katie, the daughter of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Cabell. General Cabell is Deputy Director of Central Intelligence, USAF.

Katie is a freshman at the Georgetown Visitation Convent, pursuing a liberal arts course. At school she sings in the Glee Club, and is interested in designing, modeling and tennis.

AND TIMES HERALD

JUDITH MAE KNOBLA
Wisconsin

KATIE CABELL
Texas

CAROL CARRUTHERS
Virginia

JANET JONES
Oklahoma

LOIS SAMS
Tennessee

GAIL ITSCHNER
Washington

From Six States

More Festival Princesses Named

HALF A DOZEN more beauties from North, South, East and West, have been named to the growing list of Cherry Blossom Princesses.

Locally, there's Gail Sandra Itschner, a mathematics major at George Washington University who will represent the state of Washington. An Army "brat," Gail is the daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Emerson C. Itschner and has traveled extensively. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Oklahoma's festival princess is Janet Jones of Cordell, Okla., a newcomer to the Nation's Capital. She is a political science and mathematics major at American University. A graduate of Cordell High School, Janet was an outstanding debater and queen of the senior class. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood Jones.

Representing Tennessee this year is Lois Christine Sams, a scholarship student at the University of Tennessee. She is 20-years-old, a junior home economics major and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

A farmer's daughter, Lois comes from Douglas Lake, near Dandridge, Tenn. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sams. At Dandridge High School, Lois was voted the top beauty and most popular student. Her hobbies include sewing, dancing, water-skiing and swimming.

REPRESENTING the "Dairy State" of Wisconsin is Judith Mae Knobla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Knobla. Her father is an architect with the Department of the Army.

She attended Strayer Business College and the University of Maryland, majoring in business and public administration. She is now employed in the Office of the Chief of Transportation, Department of the Army.

SELECTED as Virginia's princess is Carol Moore Carruthers, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore Carruthers. Carol attends Marjorie Webster Junior College, and excels in riding, tennis, swimming and dancing. Her home is Charlottesville.

Texas' princess is Catherine deWitt Cabell, better known as Katie, the daughter of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Cabell. General Cabell is Deputy Director of Central Intelligence, USAF.

Katie is a freshman at the Georgetown Visitation Convent, pursuing a liberal arts course. At school she sings in the Glee Club, and is interested in designing, modeling and tennis.